

Writing Center

At the Writing Center peer writing assistants work with students in a personal, one-on-one environment, helping students improve writing basics like punctuation, structure, and documenting sources, identify areas of strength and weakness, and solve problems with written expression. The goal is to help students improve their writing skills and become more proficient in reviewing and revising their own work. Located in Walton 205, the Writing Center is open Sunday-Thursday from 6-9 p.m., and Monday-Friday from 11 a.m. – 2 p.m. Services are available to students in the College of Arts & Sciences by appointment or on a walk-in basis. Students from other programs should consult their home programs for information on resources available to them.

The Writing Center is not staffed to provide help with conversational English to non-native speakers. Students wanting assistance in developing English proficiency are advised to contact their programs or departments for referral to resources.

A writing assistance request form is available in Walton 210. For further information, stop by or call (610) 341-5837 or (610) 341-1453.
